Spiders

What are spiders?

Although sometimes thought to be insects spiders are arachnids. There are somewhere in the neighborhood of 3,000 species of spiders in the United States. The spiders of interest in our geography include brown recluse spiders and black widow spiders.

Brown recluse spiders measure 1/4 to 1/2 an inch and are tan to dark brown with a fiddle shaped marking on the top of the cephalothorax. They have six eyes in three groups of two in a semicircle. They may be around rocks, in utility boxes, in woodpiles and many other places outside. They may be found many places inside as well.

Female black widow spiders measure 1/2 and are black with a reddish hourglass shape on the abdomen. It bears mentioning that color and marking are not always a reliable means of identification. Identification is best left to a professional. It is a bit of a misnomer that the female always kills the male she mates with, actually this rarely occurs!

Are they dangerous?

Yes, a visit to the emergency room is recommended if bitten by either one of these spiders.

How do you get rid of spiders?

Spiders may be difficult to control. That's why our service includes the necessary products and follow up visits for one fee. Our treatment methods consist of the following:

Initial Service - Detailed inspection of the interior and exterior of your home, then a targeted treatment of all areas where activity is present. Each Initial Service includes the application of seven exclusive Pest Guard steps, designed to rid your home of unwanted pests and keep them away.

Follow Up - Quarterly interior/exterior or exterior-only services will be scheduled as part of our annual Integrated Pest Management program. All Schendel Premium Care customers enjoy the benefit of our PestZero Guarantee. If pests return in between visits, Schendel returns for free.

Can I do it myself?

Due to the complexity of treatment and the time required, spiders are generally not a pest many people have success in eradicating. Beware when purchasing pesticides and other products online as many are not effective. Pesticides can be harmful to people and pets if they are misused or mixed improperly.

How soon can you get here?

Schendel is 100% committed helping you ASAP. In most cases, we can respond the same or very next day.
