Voles

What are Voles

Voles are blunt-nosed, short-tailed mice that love to eat bulbs, hostas and tree roots but will eat grass roots if its preferred plants are not available. Voles are heavy vegetation eaters and considered the most prolific rodent, with an ability to multiply from two to 100 in a single year.

Why do I have them?

Voles tend to move from empty fields or uncultivated areas to adjacent lawns, gardens and landscaping in search of food and shelter.

Are they dangerous?

Voles are not a health risk to humans and pets but are considered a nuisance pest when they create trails across yards and destroy expensive landscaping.

How do you get rid of voles?

Voles are a difficult pest to eradicate and that is why our vole control program includes a thorough inspection, highly effective control measures and active monitoring.

Can I do it myself?

Due to the complexity of treatment, voles are generally not a pest many people can eradicate on their own.

How soon can you get here?

Schendel is 100% committed helping you ASAP. In most cases, we can respond the same or very next day.

Is the treatment safe?

Schendel uses the least amount of material possible to solve the problem. We utilize natural products, baits, and mechanical means as forms of treatment. When conventional materials are required, we follow very stringent guidelines to pose no threat to people, pets or plants. All products are EPA registered, and our service technicians will inform you of any specific safety measures that need to be taken.

How much does it cost?
